

Europe's hotel booking sector broadly unaffected by antitrust intervention, commission concludes

26 Aug 2022 | 09:45 GMT | Official Statement □

MLex Summary: Competition in the hotel booking sector remains largely unchanged by antitrust commitments implemented by Booking.com and Expedia in 2015, according to a study by the European Commission.

A press statement and the study are attached.

Attachment(s):

kd0722783enc_hotel_accomodation_market_study.pdf

IP_22_5045_en.pdf

Issuing Entity(ies): European Commission

Document Type(s): Statement

Related Portfolio(s):

France - Booking.com - UMIH

Antitrust - HRS - Booking.com - Expedia - Pricing \(Europe\)

UK online hotel booking investigation - Expedia - Booking.com

Areas of Interest: Antitrust

Industries: Communication Services, Consumer Discretionary, Consumer Services, Consumer Staples, Information Technology

Geographies: EU, Europe, European Countries

Topics:

Antitrust remedies

Article 101 TFEU

Behavioral remedies