John serves as general outside counsel to business organizations and their owners, advising on a range of legal issues, controversies and opportunities.

John advises clients on a wide array of commercial matters, such as service agreements, licenses and other contracts; mergers and acquisitions; equity and debt financings; and other business transactions.

John represents clients in multiple industries, in particular government contracting, transportation and food & beverage.

For government contracting clients, many of John's clients are small to medium sized companies that are based in the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area and provide goods and services for U.S. Government procurement. He advises on government contracts, subcontracts, teaming agreements and joint ventures; on organizational and financing issues; on the structure and negotiations of mergers and acquisitions; and on obtaining novations. John also advises clients with regard to bid protests and government contract disputes.

For transportation clients, John represents numerous transportation companies that provide services to the U.S. Government, especially the U.S. Department of Defense under the U.S. Transportation Command (USTRANSCOM).
