SeaTac Minimum Wage Initiative

on 12.31.13 | Posted in Employment Law

Some employees in SeaTac, Washington will ring in the new year with a minimum wage increase to $15 dollars an hour, and other benefits including paid sick and safe leave. The new law takes effect on January 1, 2014. Following a judge's recent ruling, the changes will not apply to employees within the Seattle-Tacoma International Airport. If, however, you're in the hospitality and/or transportation industry operating outside of the airport, and satisfy certain size requirements (for instance, hotels are generally covered if they include 100 or more guest rooms AND are staffed by 30 or more workers), you need to prepare for changes under the new law.

More information to come. You can contact Greg Duff with any questions.
