The travel industry is experiencing a technology renaissance. Long gone are the days of checking in at the airline counter or calling for a hotel reservation. Where is the future of travel going and how are emerging technologies changing the landscape? The TNT Conference will showcase 5 to 6 emerging companies with cutting edge technologies (micro destination marketing, in-room media, reservation applications, social media monitoring, inflight entertainment, restaurant apps) as well as two expert panels from both the development and supplier perspectives to explore how these new technologies will affect the industry.

Who should attend?

Anyone in the travel and tourism industry who would like to explore industry trends, learn about new technologies.

Entrepreneurs and investors who are engaged in travel, tourism or technology.

Panelists will include thought leaders from companies such as:
