

“Identifying Workplace Harassment in Community Radio and How to Minimize Liability,” National Federation of Community Broadcasters (NFCB) Webinar

Webinar
June 28, 2018

Related Services

Labor, Employment &
Immigration

Public concern over assault and other forms of abuse has grown in the last year, with many prominent cases making headlines. For community radio, which often has a culture that eschews policy, creating a safe, equitable space requires time, attention and purpose.

During this NFCB webinar, Nancy Cooper tackles the issues of workplace harassment – defining it, identifying it, and the makings of appropriate station policy. In this conversation, we unpack the legal and ethical issues related to harassment in an effort to lift up your station's good intent into positive action.

Watch a recording of this webinar on the NFCB YouTube Channel.