

Erwin Krasnow Was Quoted in The Washington Post About the FCC's Authority in Revoking a Station's Broadcast License

Media Mention
October 11, 2017
The Washington Post

Related Services

Election and Political Law,
Public Policy & Lobbying

Following President's Trump's threats to NBC's broadcast licenses over alleged "fake news," Erwin Krasnow commented on the likelihood of a station's license actually being revoked. Notwithstanding the fact that FCC Chairman Ajit Pai is a Trump appointee, Erwin noted that a challenge would be improbable because of the First Amendment and because the Communications Act governing the FCC doesn't allow for censorship.

Read the full Washington Post article.