

The Rise of Rule 12 Motions

Publication
November 2, 2016
American Bar Association

The numbers are familiar to every patent litigator at this point in time: The average cost of a patent litigation case through discovery is around $1 million (depending on the amount in controversy). Taking a patent litigation case all the way through trial doubles that amount (also depending on the amount in controversy). Defendants can realistically hope to end a case early through motions to dismiss and motions for judgment on the pleadings.

Subscribers can read the article "The Rise of Rule 12 Motions" here.

Contact

Benjamin J. Hodges

Related Services

Patent Litigation