

White-Collar Crime Enforcement: Legal Trends and Developments in 2017 and Beyond

Live Webinar

September 7, 2017

Event Sponsor: The Knowledge Group

Robert J. Flanagan III, a member of the firm's Litigation Department, will be on the faculty for the live webcast "White-Collar Crime Enforcement: Legal Trends and Developments in 2017 and Beyond," to be presented by The Knowledge Group on Thursday, September 7, 2017 from 3:00 – 4:00pm (ET).

In years past, companies in a variety of industries have witnessed how the continued proliferation of white collar crimes has triggered the government to ramp-up and strengthen enforcement activities. While past administrations have made aggressive efforts to prosecute individuals accountable for corporate crimes, many businesses wonder whether the Trump Administration will maintain the same level of enthusiasm or will instead opt to exercise its discretion to focus less attention on white collar crimes.

To effectively adapt to potential changes in the enforcement environment, it is imperative that companies stay abreast of the latest legal developments and enforcement trends. Establishing regulatory risk management and compliance programs will also play a significant role in managing legal issues and challenges.

Mr. Flanagan and his co-panelist will address the latest trends and critical issues related to white-collar crime enforcement, including:

- Latest Legal Trends and Developments
- Critical Issues and Key Considerations
- New Enforcement Priorities and Policies
- Defense Strategies and Effective Risk Management Programs
- Best Compliance Practices

Mr. Flanagan concentrates his practice in litigation, including substantial work in all aspects of both state and federal civil and criminal litigation pre-trial, trial, and appellate practice. His experience is focused in the areas of banking and creditors' rights, white collar criminal defense, landlord-tenant disputes, personal injury, community association law, and commercial litigation.

Additional program details and registration at: <http://bit.ly/2tNQfb7>