Event Sponsor: New Jersey Institute for Continuing Legal Education

The drafting and signing of a commercial lease can be the end of an attorney's involvement in a transaction. Or, if the lease goes into default, the drafting process can be the beginning of an arduous task of effecting remedies and resolving the client's problems. A panel of experienced commercial leasing attorneys and litigators will "sharpen the focus" for real estate practitioners seeking to craft practical and effective remedies as well as those who are struggling within the confines of the written words of the lease to effect workable solutions in a default scenario.
