

JACQUELINE I. MEYER

Partner, Matrimonial Law & Wealth Preservation Practice Leader

jmeyer@hodgsonruss.com 646.218.7633

As a business litigator, Jacqueline counsels clients in all phases of business disputes and represents them in protecting their legal rights and business interests in federal and state trial and appellate courts. She also assists clients in responding to investigations by and in arbitration proceedings before financial regulatory authorities.

As leader of Hodgson Russ's Matrimonial Law & Wealth Preservation Practice, Jacqueline collaborates internally with attorneys from the Trusts & Estates, Tax, Real Estate & Finance, and Bankruptcy Practices to counsel individuals on a full range of domestic relations issues associated with marriage, divorce, and parenting. These issues include the preservation of assets, protection of inherited and gifted property, spousal and child support, geographic relocation, and interstate and international issues. She also counsels clients respecting prenuptial, postnuptial, property settlement, separation, child custody, and parenting agreements.

In the area of employment law, Jacqueline prepares employment agreements and represents clients in discrimination cases and other employment-related litigation.
