Privacy and cybersecurity risks—including the theft of data or intellectual property, the loss of a laptop or other electronic device, the mistaken release of a customer’s personal information, or a cyberattack causing a data breach—can lead to costly business interruptions and damage to a company’s hard-earned reputation. Proactive planning and risk assessment are key, but when faced with one of these risks, a company’s response is critical to protecting its customers from harm and the company itself from liability. At this seminar, attorneys from Hodgson Russ’s Privacy, Data Breach & Cybersecurity Practice will walk through “real-life” scenarios and discuss how to manage cyber risks in today’s global marketplace.

Topics will include:

- Legal obligations of all businesses, large and small, to protect data and information
- What to expect and how to prepare for future government regulation
- Practical legal strategies for managing cyber risk
- What to do if you discover a cyber breach
- Cyber-liability insurance: what is it, what does it cover, and should your company have it?

Speakers:

Jennifer Boll, Michelle Merola, Gary Schober, and Richard Weisz
