Charles Malcomb presented on zoning code enforcement at the New York State Magistrates Association's annual meeting on October 16, 2017 in Verona, NY. The course was designed to train town and village justices on how to handle zoning and building code cases in local courts.

The New York State Magistrates Association exists to develop better methods and desirable improvements in the administration of the magistrates courts; to promote education and interchange of ideas and experiences of magistrates to that end; and to promote appropriate legislation for these purposes.
