Telehealth is growing rapidly in acceptance and adoption, and it offers potential to transform the delivery of care. The purpose of this session is to familiarize health care leaders with the use of telehealth in the post-acute and long term care settings. This session will describe telehealth; outline its benefits and challenges; explain the current regulatory framework for third-party reimbursement; highlight licensing, credentialing, and privileging issues; and identify privacy and cybersecurity considerations. The session will also illustrate how other organizations are implementing telehealth in their operations as an emerging aspect of the delivery of care.
