The world of information security and privacy is a complex web of international, national, and state laws, including the European Union's General Data Protection Regulation, HIPAA in the United States, the Graham Leach Bliley Act, the California Consumer Privacy Act, and state breach notification laws.

This presentation will explore how these laws impact business operations at large and small companies, along with practical ways to promote compliance, protect critical data, and respond when your business is impacted by a cyber incident.

You can't afford to miss our panel of information security and privacy lawyers as they discuss how a security breach unfolds, what to look for in cyber insurance, and how to structure data processing agreements that protect your business. CLE Credit Requested.
