The number of trolls that litigators and IP attorneys encounter is growing – and not just because Halloween is a few weeks away. Patent trolls (or, as they prefer, “non-practicing entities”) have become a nuisance to companies both big and small. What can you do when a patent troll demands payment? In this CLE, you will learn the basics about patents, how patent infringement lawsuits work, and strategies to deal with patent trolls.

Speakers:

- Nathaniel W. Lucek, Esq., Co-Chair, Intellectual Property, Computer & Entertainment Law Committee
- Melissa N. Subjeck, Esq., Co-Chair, Intellectual Property, Computer & Entertainment Law Committee
