

ENVIRONMENTAL AND DEVELOPMENT SERVICES FOR LARGE LIFE SCIENCES MANUFACTURER

Hodgson Russ represents a large life sciences manufacturer in multiple environmental and development matters, including wetlands work, real estate transactions, and project development, as the facility has expanded and provided jobs in Western New York. This work has included obtaining public assistance from state and local agencies such as the county industrial development agency and state development agency, and associated environmental reviews. Partner Paul D. Meosky played an instrumental role in the establishment of an Empire Zone to provide significant economic benefits to the facility.
