

TIMOTHY P. NOONAN QUOTED ON NYS RESIDENCY TAX ISSUES IN MAJOR NYC AND FLORIDA MEDIA OUTLETS

March 28, 2011

Timothy P. Noonan, a partner in the Hodgson Russ LLP State & Local Tax Practice Group and a frequent author and lecturer on New York State tax topics, recently was quoted as an authority on residency issues in articles published by the New York Times, Wall Street Journal, and Palm Beach Daily News.

Mr. Noonan was interviewed for the following articles:

- “In City Often? Tax Man Asks Some for Tally,” New York Times, February 24, 2011 (front page)
- “Tax Penalties in N.Y. Residency Case Raise Red Flags for Snowbirds,” Palm Beach Daily News, March 5, 2011
- “State Tax Probe Expands: New Jersey Man Who Bought Staten Island Home for Parents Could Owe New York,” Wall Street Journal, March 8, 2011

Mr. Noonan and his colleagues in the Hodgson Russ SALT Group have extensive experience advising clients with complex residency challenges.

Attorneys

Timothy Noonan

Practices & Industries

State & Local Tax

Tax Residency