Press Release
March 8, 2019

Buffalo, New York (March 8, 2019) – Hodgson Russ is pleased to announce that Joshua Mertzluft, Peter Sahasrabudhe, Emma Savino, Brianne Szopinski, David Yovanoff and James Zawodzinski, Jr. have joined our Buffalo office.

Joshua Mertzluft, Associate, has joined the Intellectual Property & Technology Practice. He focuses on the preparation and prosecution of patent applications in fields including nanotechnology, thin films, semiconductors, optics, software, electronics, and the mechanical arts. From his project management experience and lean manufacturing training, Joshua understands the needs of modern businesses. Joshua works with corporations, startups, universities, and independent inventors to ascertain and secure the appropriate protection for their inventions. Prior to becoming a patent attorney, he received a B.S. in Applied Physics from Houghton College and was a mechanical engineer.

Peter Sahasrabudhe, Associate, has joined the Business Litigation Practice. He will assist with cases that cover several different areas of substantive law. His experience includes assistance with the defense of a derivative shareholder lawsuit, non-compete litigation, litigation involving the New York State False Claims Act, environmental litigation involving potential CERCLA liability, government audits and contract disputes. He has also been involved in some personal injury and insurance defense work as well as assisting on a criminal appeal matter, in a pro bono capacity, which was argued before the New York State Appellate Division, Fourth Department. Prior to joining Hodgson Russ as an attorney, Pete worked for the firm on a part-time basis during his last year in law school and was also a summer associate here.

Emma Savino, Associate, has joined the State and Local Tax Practice. She handles disputes involving the New York State and City Tax Departments and counsels businesses and individuals in a range of multistate, state and local tax issues. She advises clients on all aspects of state and local tax from planning and compliance, to audit and litigation. Prior to joining Hodgson Russ, Emma served as a volunteer law clerk for United States District Judge William Skretny of the Western District of New York. She was also employed as a law clerk at a local firm for nearly two years.

Brianne Szopinski, Associate, has joined the Real Estate & Finance Practice. She will represent clients in various commercial real estate and finance matters, including banking and finance, public-private partnerships, real estate development
