

Corporate Services

Laner Muchin understands that while not every business has its own in-house lawyer, every business needs a corporate advocate to drive growth and minimize risk.

Our attorneys provide corporate and commercial counsel for small and mid-size businesses and corporations alike, guiding them through the entire life cycle from formation to sale. We regularly set up domestic and international entities, provide contract review and negotiation, as well as advise on insurance, compliance and governance. For companies in growth mode, we work closely with them on mergers and acquisitions along with other development strategies.

We understand that business leaders want to focus on what they do best, not on navigating the ever-changing federal and state compliance issues. We keep clients abreast of the latest hot-button issues including non-competes and the Corporate Transparency Act (CTA).

We work to mitigate risk for business leaders through proactive counseling, but when disputes with shareholders, partners and members arise, we offer creative solutions to address conflicts and meet business goals.

For more mature companies, we advise on business succession planning, sales and dissolutions, all while maximizing the value of the company and its assets.
