Bill joined Laner Muchin in 2010 as a partner from a large, international law firm's Chicago office. In over 40 years of practice, Bill has developed extensive experience in all areas of Employee Benefits law, including retirement plans of all types, health and welfare benefits, and executive compensation.

His retirement plan work includes not only counseling employers on plan design and compliance, but especially negotiating service agreements, advising on benefit claim and disputes, coordinating plan terminations and mergers, developing administrative policies and best practices, defending against government audits and investigations, and assisting with corrective actions and strategies.

In the health and welfare area, Bill advises employers on plan design and compliance, HIPAA, COBRA and ACA compliance, fiduciary protection and benefit claim disputes.

In the executive compensation area, Bill counsels on the design, compliance and drafting of all types of deferred compensation and equity-based compensation, including bonus, severance, change of control, phantom stock and stock option programs, and represents both employers and executives.
