NURSE ANALYST

Overview

As a former registered nurse, Lee offers a distinctive fusion of medical acumen and legal know-how within our health care, malpractice, insurance defense, tort defense, transportation, construction and premises liability cases. He has served many roles including nurse analyst paralegal, nurse manager in a rehabilitation facility, hospital ICU/CCU staff nurse, hospital joint replacement staff nurse, office manager, EMT, and EKG technician.

Lee's adept handling of document management, including organizing voluminous document productions and abstracting critical medical records, ensures the firm's legal strategies are grounded in meticulous preparation and comprehensive evidence. Lee's skill set not only supports the firm's attorneys but directly impact clients' abilities to effectively respond to litigation challenges.

Lee's intricate knowledge of the medical industry enables him to identify vital elements within a case as well as coordinate efficiently with other experts. Lee meticulously reviews medical records, ensuring accuracy and relevance to the legal matter at hand. His insights into standard healthcare practices and protocols provide a valuable perspective that enhances the overall strength of the defense. His role includes abstracting deposition testimony, drafting subpoenas, and selecting records to be provided for expert review.

He also serves a pivotal role in our transportation, construction and retail cases, utilizing his understanding of safety protocols and risk management. Lee assists attorneys in developing comprehensive strategies to address issues such as accidents, and injuries.

Beyond his core responsibilities, Lee's dedication to successful client outcomes extends to conducting jury verdict research to inform settlement strategies and potential litigation exposures. Lee's multifaceted role is vital to both the team's success and the defense strategies the firm deploys on behalf of its clients.
