The Asian American Business Association hosts their annual Asian American Business Expo at the UIC forum, located at 725 Roosevelt Road. This day-long event features concurrent sessions such as advanced real estate, SBA loans, mentoring, and more.

At his breakout session, "How to Use the Small Claims Court to Your Advantage," Gary Zhao discusses how to use small business claims to your advantage. The small claims court gives individuals an economic and simple way to resolve arguments with the help of a judge. The session, which will be held in Room D, covers a variety of timely and relevant business and cultural topics.
