

Subdivision Law

National Business Institute; Webinar
April 24, 2019

Subdividing land requires a solid grasp of government subdivision ordinances and a good handle on the approval process. During this National Business Institute webinar Brad Goss will help build an understanding of land subdivision, how to avoid legal issues, and how to secure approvals.

This program is designed for attorneys, real estate professionals, developers, local government officials, engineers, surveyors and paralegals. Register today!

- Explore platting and subdivision processes and laws
- Learn what's required for vacating or dedicating subdivisions to public uses
- Navigate the application process and help clients get their plats approved
- Find a way forward when your client's request for approval is denied
