

Linda Pence Obtains Settlement in Indianapolis City-County Council Dispute

Linda Pence recently obtained a settlement that made headlines. The settlement between Indianapolis City-County Council members resulted in the plaintiffs dropping a restraining order against Linda's client. The dispute between city council members stemmed from the president firing the council clerk and council attorney. Eight members of the council sought a restraining order against the president and asked for both the clerk and attorney to be reinstated.

More information on the developing case can be found at local news outlets.
