

Won a Ruling Affirming the Dismissal of a Lawsuit Against a National Testing Agency Accused of Selling Personal Identifiable Information

Amundsen Davis won a ruling from Seventh Circuit affirming dismissal of lawsuit against a national testing agency in which plaintiffs alleged claims on behalf of a putative class of 16 million persons that their personal identifiable information had been sold without authorization.

PROFESSIONALS

Eric L. Samore
Partner

RELATED SERVICES

Class Action