Real Estate and Zoning attorney, Brian Randall was quoted in a recent Milwaukee Business Journal article addressing the current state of development projects in the downtown area and whether they will be ready in time for the 2020 Democratic National Convention (DNC). Since Milwaukee was announced as the host for the 2020 DNC in March, several development projects in the area have revised their completion timing. As noted in the article, Brian assures that since so many projects were already underway, the pressure to complete them has not necessarily made an impact on timing.
