Wisconsin Lawyer interviewed Ngosong Fonkem to get a better understanding of what he does as a trade compliance lawyer and what his path was to get there.

In the interview Ngosong discusses what made him interested in international issues and how he obtained the knowledge it takes to become a trade compliance lawyer. "My interest might be due to my background – I was born in Cameroon, a country located in west Africa. I also love to travel and learn about other cultures, with particular interest in traveling to non-popular destinations around the world. I have had the opportunity to live in or visit more than 50 countries so far."
