Washington, DC – Wiley Rein LLP announced today that Kevin G. Rupy, former Vice President of Law and Policy at the United States Telecom Association (USTelecom), has joined the firm as a partner in the Telecom, Media & Technology (TMT) Practice. An industry leader in traditional and emerging communications legal and policy issues, Mr. Rupy will serve as a “go-to” attorney on key challenges facing the TMT industry.

“With 20 years of legal and policy experience, Kevin is a nationally recognized authority on complex telecom matters – including top-priority efforts to curb illegal robocalls,” said Managing Partner Peter D. Shields. “We are pleased to welcome Kevin to the firm, where his effective advocacy on a range of issues will be a great asset to our preeminent TMT Group.”

At USTelecom, where he served for more than 13 years, Mr. Rupy represented Fortune 500 companies in the wireline broadband marketplace. On behalf of the association, he worked closely with multiple government agencies, Congress, member companies, and industry contacts on issues ranging from common carrier regulation to the areas of robocalls, cybersecurity, and copyright safe harbors for ISPs. He also helped secure major reforms to the Federal Communications Commission’s (FCC) pole attachment regulations.
