

AI Risks for Government Contractors: Navigating Disputes and Litigation

Wiley Government Contracts

June 13, 2024

On this episode of Wiley's Government Contracts podcast, Nick Peterson joins host Craig Smith to discuss the challenges and risks that come with the use of artificial intelligence (AI) tools by government contractors and customers in today's constantly changing landscape. Listen to hear about how these tools will impact investigations and disputes, including the key issues surrounding preservation and documentation and AI policies governing these tools.
