

Introduction to the Bioeconomy: An Interview with Stephanie Batchelor of BIO

Wiley Podcasts

December 2020

Stephanie Batchelor is an esteemed advocate for companies advancing the biobased economy. As Vice President of BIO's Industrial and Environmental Section, Stephanie provides policy, regulatory, and strategic support and guidance to technology companies that are leaders in the production of biofuels, renewable chemicals, biobased products, and biomanufacturing processes. Martha and Stephanie engaged in an in-depth discussion on the direction of industrial biotechnology, and how the Coronavirus is no match for biotechnology and the ongoing collaboration between industry and government.
